Pair of Swedish Teak Tripod Side/Drinks Tables by Albert Larsson for Alberts Tibro

each with round teak top raised on metal supports ending in teak feet; Albert Larsson was a Swedish carpenter and furniture maker from the Mid-century modern period. He established his own business Alberts Tibro in 1938, and after World War II the small production team began specializing in coffee tables and multifunctional height-adjustable tables. Throughout the following decades the company grew to become one of Sweden's most successful manufacturers. In 1959 he made one of his most iconic pieces; the small wooden side table with coppered steel legs called 'Table in the Jar,' as seen here; good vintage condition with minor wear and patina
